Grooove

Aurora V-Groove is a way to engrave any type of glass. Both lineal and curved patterns can be cut into the glass surface to create a distinctive look or to add a functional benefit.

How do we do it?

Aurora V-Groove is cut into the glass using an innovative technique that is like using a chisel on wood. The first pass, called a grind, creates a textured opaque finish. It can be left like this or put through a second pass, or a polish, which creates a smooth clear finish. Or you can combine a wide grind with a narrower polish to create a shadow.

So what is possible?

With four standard Aurora V-Groove widths we can create almost any pattern or design that you can think of. From traditional and ornate patterns to sleek contemporary geometric designs, with Aurora V-Groove you have plenty to consider – different finishes, different widths, applied to your design.

Available sizes

Polish 6mm, 10mm, 15mm and 20mm

Grind 6mm, 10mm, 15mm and 20mm

Shadow 10mm grind with 6mm polish
15mm grind with 6mm polish
20mm grind with 10mm polish
